Application for Master International Automotive Engineering to Summer Semester 2024

Notes

The course language is English.

There will be an aptitude test for the study course International Automotive Engineering before admission. The aptitude test is not a test, where you have to appear in person. Your documented considerable experience in the field of automotive production is being assessed. The following criteria will be assessed:

1. Published scientific papers and/or project reports in the automotive relevant area (NOT final thesis)
2. Working experience and/or internships: proof of duration of practical experiences or internships and how the internship's tasks are related to design or testing of mechatronic vehicle systems is necessary. The associated certification must show the name of the applicant, the name of the company, the duration and the tasks the applicant has been working on.
3. Final thesis: is the topic of the final thesis close to the automotive engineering area and was it independently prepared according to the engineering-scientific methods. The final thesis must be mentioned in the grade sheet. In addition, we ask for a copy of the cover sheet (with name of applicant and title) and the thesis' abstract
4. Knowledge in the areas of automotive engineering, control engineering, signal processing, sensors / actuators, simulation of mechatronic systems, electronics, microcomputer technology, programming.

You can upload proof of the mentioned experience you have in the upload-area later. An examination commission will check the uploaded experience and perform the aptitude test.

Please also have a look on the information we provide on our homepage. There we describe our application process, and you can also find a section with FAQs which might be useful: https://www.thi.de/en/studies/application/masterapplication-from-abroad/

The following information aims to help international applicants to gain deeper comprehension of our application and admission process. Information regarding uni-assist Applicants whose relevant pre-studies (usually Bachelor) were acquired outside of Germany need their pre-studies to get checked from uni-assist. Uni-assist converts the grade point average into the German grading system and categorizes the pre-studies into the ECTS-system (240, 210 or 180 ECTS).

The German grade point average is displayed on the VPD applicants get from uni-assist (which needs to be uploaded in our upload-area). The ECTS categorization needs to be retrieved from employees of the university from the portal of uni-assist.

For this reason it is highly important that our applicants upload a VPD which is issued for a Master application at the Technische Hochschule Ingolstadt. Without VPD, with a VPD from another university or a VPD for a Bachelor application the additional information in the portal of uni-assist cant be accessed. Taking part the aptitude test or admission process then is not possible.

I am aware of the above named information regarding uni-assist.

Information regarding additional 30 ECTS

For possible admission at the Technishe Hochschule Ingolstadt a Bachelor course with at least 210 ECTS, or an equivalent one is necessary. There are countries where the Bachelor courses almost always are equivalent to 180 ECTS, although the courses might be four-year-courses. p.ex. Bangladesh, China, India, Pakistan.

Applicants whose Bachelor's degree corresponds to 180 ECTS must provide evidence of achievements to the extent of 30 additional ECTS. According to the study and examination regulations of the respective degree programme at Technische Hochschule Ingolstadt, the proof can be provided by an internship of at least 20 weeks after the Bachelor's degree.

The proof of working experience needs to be an official working certificate which contains information of a basic working certificate in Germany. Basic working certificates in Germany contain the following information information on employer (name, address, contact information, sector of the company) and on the employment relationship (who, where, how long and fromuntil which date, exerted tasks).

The tasks need to correspond with the field of study of the chosen Master (technical, technical and economical, economical). Without the named information recognition of the 30 additional ECTS cant take place.

As applicants often get their VPD quite late the upload-field for the 30 additional ECTS will be displayed or not depending on the country where the pre-studies were acquired. In case experience tells the Bachelor degrees from a country are equivalent to 180 ECTS the upload field will be visible at once.

In case the employee of the university who checks on the VPD and the information in the portal of uni-assist sees that the degree in fact is equivalent to 210 or more ECTS the upload field vanishes. The other way round of course also is possible the upload field can be added from the employees for the university in case its necessary. Therefore its important to regularly check on the upload area.

I am aware of the above named information regarding 30
additional ECTS *

Yes, I am aware of that ▾

If the chosen degree programme has an aptitude test, please note the following information (does not apply to part-time degree programmes of the IAW)

In case the qualification requirements regarding the bachelor pre-studies are fulfilled (at least 210 ECTS or 180 plus 30 ECTS etc.) applicants take part the aptitude test.

After the end of the application period the uploaded documents for the aptitude test will be forwarded to the commission which is responsible for performing the aptitude test. The commission adjusts the grade point average (which uni-assist converted) according to the law that applies for the specific Master course.

Information on how the aptitude test is performed in detail can be given from the head of the study course.

The basic idea behind all this is in case an applicant already focused on the subject area of the chosen Master (which is shown in the documents he or she uploaded) the grade point average of the Bachelor improves and with it the probability to be admitted. In case one did not focus on the relevant area the grade point average impairs.

The criteria for passing the aptitude test can be found in the study and examination regulations of the respective degree programme. Applicants who do not pass the aptitude test are considered unsuitable and therefore receive a rejection letter.

All applicants who pass the aptitude test take part in the admission procedure. During the admission procedure, a ranking list is drawn up according to the adjusted grade point average.

Since there are usually more suitable applicants than available places, only the best applicants on the ranking list receive a letter of admission. All others receive a rejection letter (reason: grade point average not good enough).

I am aware of the above named information regarding aptitude test *

If you come from a country with an APS certificate, please note the following information:

An APS certificate is required if you are from one of the following countries:

- India
- China
- Mongolia
- Vietnam

The APS certificate must already be submitted to uni-assist. In the application procedure for the winter semester 2023/2024, the VPD will be issued by uni-assist even without the APS certificate. In case of admission, you have to upload the APS certificate in the upload area in the PRIMUSS applicant portal in order to be finally enrolled.

I have taken note of the above information on the APS certificate. *
